Christmas

CHRISTMAS BEGINS IN CHURCH: In the preceding eleven months of the year Christmas celebrations begin... they begin in churches where the Great Spirit is extolled, Christmas is a time of happiness, of recognition of the true Christmas spirit... for the true Christmas spirit is not of long-faced, resentful gloom; but of joy, merriment, laughter, Isaac was named "Laughter" for that is what "Isaac" means in Hebrew, Christmas is the epitome of joy, of Gladness, we remember how the shepherds went on their way "rejoicing". The joy of Christianity find their culmination in the celebration of the Birth of Christ.

CHRISTMAS BEGINS IN CHURCH: So, this Christmas, this coming Christmas Day and season, let us enter into the House of God and give thanks for the blessings bestowed in the Birth of Christ, Very God, who became known as the Son of Man that we in Him might know joy and gladness, world without end.

Age-Old Problem

Of one of his many pre-Christmas accidents to detect the needs of good boys and girls, one of Santa's helpers stopped at the home of Mrs. Merry and asked about her children. "How many do you have?" was his query. "Two," she replied, "a boy and a girl." When he asked their ages, he was more than a bit puzzled. "If you add the square of the age of the boy," Mrs. Merry said, "to the age of his sister, the sum is 43; but if you add the square of the sister's age to the age of the boy, the result is 27."

Experienced mathematicians that he is, Santa had little difficulty determining the youngsters' ages. Can you figure them out?

Answer in one minute.

How can you keep a rooster from crowing on Christmas?

Answer in one minute.

Now, at this happiest season of the year, we want to wish you and your families all the joy and happiness possible, and to extend to you our sincere good wishes for a healthy, happy, prosperous new year!

Pity Poor Mom At Christmas

... But soon things return to normal.

By BERNICE MAKDATOR

Soon the gifts will be opened, the meal will be eaten, and instead of Christmas cards, everyone will be singing the After-Christmas Blues.

It's a sad fact that the year's biggest holiday is followed by an even bigger anticlimax. Since November, the whole family has been buoyed up by a feeling of anticipation as heady as opium.

While mother worked frantically over the kitchen stove, father put up the Christmas tree, Junior pulled it down while playing Tarsan, and Janie and little Mark belted out songs about an alcoholic reindeer called Rudolph. Santa Claus manifested himself on every street corner and department store prices rose like a thermometer in hot water.

Then suddenly it's over. A sinister hangover replaces the intoxicating spirit of Christmas. The exciting count-down of remaining shopping days is a thing of the past.

The turkey is dry, the mince pie is stale and the cards are curling at the edges. Angel hair from the tree covers everything from the carpet to the dog and traces of it will still be found from time to time in mother's hat box, or providing a ready-made home for spiders in the linen closet.

AFTERMATH
The grim aftermath will take its toll of the family. Father's digestion and his waistline show the effects of too much plum pudding. Junior and Janie return to their state of war with new vigor, after a temporary truce for the holiday season. Even baby Mark views his brand-new Teddy bear with suspicion, knowing that it heralds all kinds of unpleasant events in the future. Mother not only has to soothe ruffled feathers, but to deal with her own after-Christmas blues. It's time to start house-cleaning and cooking again, this time for the New Year. There are a dozen letters to be written thanking relatives for useful cushion covers and pot holders. And the stain in the lace table cloth must be removed before January 1.

She must now return to the toy store that she so recently left and convince a skeptical clerk that the doll's eyes were punched in by a careless delivery boy and not by little Janie when she discovered it didn't say "mama".

While she's downtown, she notes with annoyance that the pretty cards that she paid $2.98 for just before Christmas are now practically being given away for cereal box tops. And the elegant, pink-striped ascot that the sales clerk had sworn to be the only one in the city, it's not in the whole country, is lying dingy and discarded with a douse like it on a table marked "Reduced to clear."

TREE GAME
Meanwhile, at home, the annual game called "Who's going to strip the Christmas tree" is in progress. The rules are simple: The object is to always have something of great importance to do so that mother will end up doing it as she did last year.

And mother is playing a game of her own in the kitchen. This one involves inventing ways to disguise the turkey so that the family will munch it by February. Let's see—Turkey a la King, turkey croquette, turkey thermidor, sautéed pate de turkey au gratin...

Then there's the problem of getting Junior to thank Auntie Flo for his Winnie the Pooh book. Auntie believes that any boy who doesn't read the Pooh books is destined for juvenile delinquency. Junior, however, has traded his copy with the boy next door for 30 hockey pelties.

Mother must retrieve it before Auntie finds out. She finally buys a new one, after tracing the original to a boy who has left for South America with his parents.

PERPETUAL CHRISTMAS
With the even smaller fry it's sometimes necessary to deal with certain misconceptions that arise at Christmas time. Like the delusion of grandeur brought on by the sudden riches of Christmas morning and the idea that Santa's bounty extends for all 365 days of the year. Questions like, "How come Santa Claus didn't bring me mittens this morning?" must be treated tactfully, mother finds. Meanwhile, father, shocked by the size of the post-Christmas bank balance, has decided to economize.

This means mother must buy next year's presents now, while the sales are on. So once again she battles the downtown shoppers for dolls, model cars and cuddly animals, which are hidden carefully from the prying eyes of the children. Within a week, however, the spots have been found and claimed, and it is no use pleading that they must be saved for next Christmas. Every kid knows that Santa provides the presents and will keep on doing so, with or without Mummy's help.

The Christmas concert

By G. E. MORTIMER

Here comes small shepherd tipping into the centre of the room carrying a portable manger full of hay.

He places a Christ Child doll in it and tiptoes reverently out again. The shepherd is a plump little fellow
about two and a half feet tall.
A miniature Mary and Joseph enter, followed by shepherds, Magi and angels with gauze and paper wings.

Fathers, mothers and grandmothers are seated at the other end of the room. For several weeks past, the children have been singing myr-turous fragments of Christmas songs at the breakfast

Now it is the day of the concert. "They take it so seriously," whispers a mother.
Then she stares forward, as though trying by sheer power of concentration to prevent her little boy from making a false step.

The school concert never goes quite according to plan.
A shepherd turns left instead of right. One of the Magi makes a funny face, or a choir singer wanders away from the tune.

At a piano behind the scene is the lady who has worked so hard rehearsing these little people. Sometimes you can hear her starting a song with "One, two..." or prompting a faltering singer.
Sometimes you see her arm
impelling an angel in the right direction.

You might think that the little performance would look comical... the Magi and choristers and heralds filling past ("Don't hurry, take your time," the teacher commands)

the shepherds watching by a fire made of sticks and red cloth, the demure little Mary bowing to the angel down at the make-believe Christ Child
in the manger.

But nobody laughs. The children's faces are solemn under their carefully-made hoods and curls. Some of the light of distant times and places seems to shine about them, as they sing a homely Christmas song.

"I," said the donkey, all
shaggy and brown,
"I carried His Mother up
hill and down
I carried His Mother to Bethlehem town."

"I," said the donkey, all
shaggy and brown,
The parents watch in silence, some of them witnessing the first public appearance of their toddlers, others seeing their tall boys and girls

act for the last time in a concert at this little school.
When all the children have disappeared behind the partition and the play is over, there is a rustle and creak of chairs
as the parents turn around to talk, and pretend to be unconcerned.

But they don't fool each other. Somebody takes a deep breath, and somebody else clenches hand and cheeks. They have been watching their young intently.

Sympathy is what one man offers to another in exchange for details.

"Little girl," "Mamma," was did you marry yet?"
Mother: "So you've begun
to wonder, too."

Love is like a salad: you need a lot of lettuce and a little tomato.

Sincere good wishes for a joyous Christmas season and merry thanks for allowing us to serve you.

These Ghosts Walk At Christmas

By BERNARD THORNE

The ghosts that haunted Scrooge in Dickens' famous Christmas Carol were only seek apparitions compared to some of the phantoms that stalk the shadows at Christmas in our own day.

The winter climate of Britain must be ideal for spooks, since it is on that island of grey mists that most of the ghosts of Christmas thrive.

Many old English halls and castles have their legends and Christmas phantoms, and Cumnor Hall near Oxford is among the best known.

Before Cumnor Hall was destroyed, the ghost of Amy Roberts walked the grounds each Christmas for almost 250 years.

Amy was the wife of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester.
She married Leicester when she was only 17 years old,
but saw little of her husband.

He was a favorite of Elizabeth I and spent all his time
at Court, leaving Amy to live alone at Cumnor Hall.

It soon became rumored in Court circles that Elizabeth and Leicester wanted to be married. This, of course, was impossible, since the earl was already married to Amy.

No one knew how it happened, but soon after Amy was found dead at the foot of the great staircase at the Hall.

ACCUSING STARE

But Leicester had not seen the last of Amy. The following Christmas her pale shape
appeared near the staircase where she had died, and she returned every Christmas, to stare tragically and accusing.

(Cont. on Page 19, Col. 3)

When they called her a witch, poor Nan Tuck could only cry to heaven for help.

BLACKMAIL
Junior, who doesn't believe in Santa Claus anyway, lets to keep his share of the loot by the simple method of blackmail—"I'll tell Mark and Janie about Santa."

Rather than be responsible for two childhood traumas, mother gives in.

Eventually, Christmas gives joy to the New Year, and life returns to normal. Father has gotten a life-saving raise, the kids are back at school, and little Mark has forgotten that Santa ever existed.

Mother gives a heartfelt sigh and leans back to enjoy a well-earned rest. At least until it's time for chocolate eggs and Easter Bunnies.

ly at all who still lived in the Hall.

After the victory over the Spanish Armada, Leicester one day was returning home through Wyckwood Forest, tired and sick after battle.

Without warning, the spectral shape of his wife loomed before him, and with a great laugh his phantom wife predicted that he would be dead within 10 days.

A week later it was announced at Court that Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, had died.

Any continued to haunt Cumnor Hall every Christmas until the house was demolished in 1616. Her spirit then moved to her parents' home at Syderstone Hall, where she walks to this day, so it is said.

SEEKS VENGEANCE

Well known for its ghosts is Britain's Glamis Castle, where the Queen Mother spent her childhood and Princess Margaret was born. Most famous of the Glamis ghosts is Janet, Lady Glamis, wife of the sixth earl.

Tried and convicted of plotting the death of James V, Lady Glamis was burned at the stake as a witch. Each Christmas she returns to float silently down the moonlit corridor, seeking vengeance on her accusers.

Cortachy Castle in Scotland is haunted by the ghost of a drummer boy who kept secret trysts with the beautiful Countess of Arllie three centuries ago. Their romance was discovered by the earl, who promptly had the boy sealed in his own drum and hung from the castle turret. Today, as Christmas Day approaches, the hollow beats of a ghostly drum echo through the stone corridors.

The estate of Lyme Park in England is known for an unusual Christmas appearance.

In 1632 Sir Miles Legh, owner of Lyme Park, was killed in Paris. His body was brought back and buried in the family vault. At Christmas a phantom funeral has often been seen slowly ascending the hill to the vault.

Behind this grey procession walks a spectral figure in white. It is the shadow of Blanche, a woman who loved St. Peter and who fell dead with grief when she learned of his death.

YOUNG 'WITCH'

Witches are normally associated with Halloween, but at Busted there is a witch that haunts the neighborhood of Tucks Wood only at Christmas.

It is said a young and beautiful girl named Nan Tuck was labelled a witch by superstitious villagers. Ugly rumors about Nan were spread throughout the country, until one day the villagers gathered into a mob, determined to drown Nan in the stream below a mill as punishment for her witchery.

The frightened girl fled to Busted Church for sanctuary, with the mob howling at her heels. She reached the church door safely, but was kept out by the parson, who shouted that he would not protect a witch in his church.

Terrified, she fled into the gloom of Tucks Wood. To escape the bloodthirsty villagers, she hanged herself from a tree.

The angry villagers found her body, tore it down from the tree, hanged it roughly back to the village and buried it without ceremony or respect in an unconsecrated ground outside the churchyard. Near her grave they put up a stone with a strange heathen design, intended to deter the wings that the devil had given to that terrible witch, the young Nan Tuck.

Today there are villagers who swear they have seen the ghost of Nan Tuck groping with outstretched hands through the gloomy woods, her eyes wide with terror, her face white and afraid. And there are those who tell of a swollen ridge around her neck where the rope cut deep into her flesh.

Few inhabitants dare to enter those woods at night, particularly on Christmas Eve, when it is known that Nan Tuck walks in the shadows of the trees, crying to heaven for help from the mob.

Canada has its share of ghosts, but there is no well-known one directly associated with Christmas.

PHANTOM SHIP

However, North America has one particularly famous Christmas spectre to boast of — the phantom ship of the Florida Everglades.

Eyewitnesses describe the ship as a mass of ragged sails and decayed timber, drifting slowly through the misty mangrove swamps of the Everglades. A luminous blue light is said to flicker through the rotting ribs of the vessel as the phantom planks set out over and over again the evil deed that brought them and their ship to this doom.

The ship was originally a pirate vessel, one of many that infested the Caribbean and the Florida Keys. The pirates one day attacked a merchantman, looting it and mercifully putting its crew to death.

CHURCH OF GOD

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

By Rev. Donald Seale, D.V., Church of God.

The spirit of Christmas has come since the early record given by Matthew and Luke in the Gospels. The "Good News" that Christ is born has less its sting of rebuke. The brightening of the wise men has been replaced by a kingdom of many desires. However, men still celebrate Christmas. Our world can never forget the incredible change Christ made upon history.

For God to loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life, Jn. 3:16.

THE SPIRIT OF GIVING: Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world. And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth; we have beheld his glory, as if the only Son from the Father, in, 1:14. And she gave birth to her first-born son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no place for him in the inn. Luke 2:7.

Only as we catch the importance of God's gift to mankind can we realize the real spirit of giving. His only Son, because he did not shrink among us, . . . Why? Because God loved us.

The Christmas spirit of giving would be one of love. Often we dwell upon the lesser things, as in the women in the crowd of Jesus. "Blessed is the womb that bore you and the breasts that nursed you," said Jesus. "But He (Jesus) who hears the word of God and keeps it?"

When the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has made known to us." After they had found

Luke 11:27 - 28 Many people can only see the human side of Christmas, the glittering of lights, the decorated trees, the delicious food, the commercial benefit and the false - faced, selfish spirit. John could see the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world. . . . Once again this spirit of God's gift to mankind needs a clear focus in the eyes of the world.

THE SPIRIT OF JOY AND PEACE

And in the region there was shepherds out in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And an angel of the Lord appeared to them and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were filled with fear, And the angel said to them, "Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. And this will be a sign for you: you will find a babe wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly hosts praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace among men with whom He is pleased!"

Walking down the street of a city one evening, I saw a crowd of people and I was struck by the fact that they did not seem to be looking at each other. They were all looking at the ground, as if they were looking for something that was not there.

When the angels went away from them into heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing that has happened, which the Lord has made known to us." After they had found

Jesus, the Christ, Savior of the world, they returned, glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them.

"Behold, a virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and his name shall be called Immanuel" (which means, "God with us," Mt. 1:23, Joy to the world the Lord is come, let earth receive her King. Let every heart prepare Him room, . . . For there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved. Act 4:12, I.V.

THE SPIRIT OF WORSHIP

When does worship enter into the celebration of Christ's birthday? Now when Jesus was born, in Bethlehem of Judah in the days of Herod the King, behold, wise men from the East came to Jerusalem, saying, "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews?" For we have seen his star in the East, and have come to worship him. Mt. 2:1-2. It is true that the wise men brought gifts to Jesus, but there first and most important purpose was to worship him. And going into the house they saw the infant Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshipped him. Then, opening their treasures, they offered him gifts, gold and frankincense and myrror. Mt. 2:11. One of the highlights of Christmas is not how it is celebrated, but how we give our gifts, before any gifts are given out, we each in turn tell a portion of the Christmas story in our own words, as a time of prayer. Thanking God for his unsearchable gifts.

Christmas is a blessed time. What says the list for Christmas in your home? There was found no room in the inn, . . . but that was nearly two thousand years ago, men have room for pleasure room for business, the soul withers and the question? "Have you any room for Jesus?"

Then did leave thy dunce And thy kingly crown when thou 'st met to earth for me; but in Bethlehem's home was there found no room for thy holy nativity.

O come to my heart, Lord Jesus, There is room in my heart for thee.

Then cannot O Lord, With the bring word That should set thy people free; But with mocking soon, And with cries of them, They have thee to Calvary.

O come to my heart, Lord Jesus, There is room in my heart for thee. Amen

THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

God's gift to man and man's gift to God.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

WHAT CHRISTMAS MEANS TO ME

By Rev. H. Spreyer, Pastor
Immanuel Lutheran Church

To get at the full meaning of what Christmas means to me, I must listen to what God's Word a host me. In Romans 8:12 we read, "Wherefore, as by one sin entered into the world, and death, by sin, death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned, . . . passage show shows me that I am a sinner even from birth. The Scriptures also tell me that, "the wages of sin is death." This means eternal death. "Cursed is everyone that continueth not in all things the Law to do them." Gal. 3:10. According to God, it is a frightful thing which, if it not remain unrepentant, will result in the eternal separation of man from his Maker.

I know, too that some people associate the idea of sin only with criminals with murderers, adulterers, and public scandalous. But God says, "There is no difference, for all have sinned." "They are all gone aside; they are altogether become filthy: there is none that doeth good; no, not one." "There is not a just man upon earth that doeth all that is commanded him." "We are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousnesses are as filthy rags." "Whoever shall keep the whole Law and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." "Those are God's words."

In his sight there is no difference as far as the fact of sin is concerned. Between the cultured white-haired matron, the respectable family man, the loving mother, the refined librarian, and the man who has been arrested last week to die for murder. There may be a difference in degree, but there is no difference in the fact. For the Scriptures have concluded all under sin. "There is no difference."

There are people to whom this consciousness of sin has never becomes very real. While they are ready, in a general way, to admit their shortcomings and regret them, they have never been troubled or terrified by the dreadful implication of their sin. The great Apostle Paul, when he became conscious of the terrible burden of his guilt, cried out, "Oh, wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" The pleading pain of sin had cut deep into his agonized soul.

I, too, have felt the dreadful weight of sin. Again and again I have had to say with the Apostle Paul, "I know that in me (that is, in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing." With David I have had to confess, "Behold, I was shaped in iniquity and in mine mother's womb was conceived in sin. I did not hide my mother's conceivings, I took back to my childhood days. I saw the vilest of men."

Four Drayton Valley girls Lynn Bennett, Linda McLennan, Valerie Krasne, and Sharon Bookers have been made "First Class Guides". Only a small percentage of guides in the guide organization become First Class Guides. These four girls besides Sheila Campbell in 1968 are the first guides in Drayton Valley to reach this level.

To become a "First Class Guide" a guide has to pass 36 tests. These tests, hard ones and easy ones, cover a variety of subjects. Guides shouldn't become responsible, and honest citizens so there are tests on first aid, fire prevention, artificial respiration, home sewing, sewing and cooking. The guide movement stresses a love of the outdoors so there are tests on hiking, swimming, tracking, laying trails, fire making, camp site, map drawing, compass and directions, and nature in general. There are also tests on the guide laws, vehicle, and hand signals. The girls also were expected to read and write a book review on the Biography of Lord Baden Powell, the founder of the Scout and Guide Movement. They also had to write essays on Canadian and World guiding.

Lynn, Linda, Valerie and Sharon have all been guides for three years or longer. The girls will be presented with their first class badges on December 10th at the Brownie and Guide Christmas Pageant.

CLERGY MESSAGES

Rev. G. E. Ingman, Rector of A.D. Sinner's, Drayton Valley.

I am eager to avail myself of this opportunity to wish all of you a blessed Christmas and a peaceful New Year.

Were do we find a blessed Christmas? I don't, I should say that it will not be found in the homes of many individuals who, through a want of faith and a deficiency of Christmas resignation and thankfulness,
are led to disdain and forfeit
the blessings of the Gospel.
True, as that is, we do sense in our society a softening and more genial influence pervading
the nation at Christmas time. That raises the question would those persons who do not mind at all passing for unbelievers throughout the greater part of the year not regret such an association at certain times such as the great Church Festivals or times of national prayer and thanksgiving? When will we realize that we are missing and missing

in which we deal with God's Holy Church directly reflect the degree of our loyalty to our Creator, Redeemer and Saviour?

Your Christmas will be blessed
if you go to church and there offer your gifts of adoration, humility, and service to God's Holy Child, announced by Him.
And, after Christmas, continue to go to church to keep Him
in all your thoughts.
"And art thou come, best
Babe, and come to me?
Come down to teach me how to come to Thee."
Welcome, thrice welcome to my nursing soul,
which, as it loves, doth
grieve that it doth fail.
The less 'tis fit for Thee come
from above,
The more it needs Thee, and the more I love."

TO SAVE SINNERS

ST. ANTHONY'S CATHOLIC CHURCH,
Rev. Fr. Sinner

As it came from the hands of God, the world and all things in it were good. Sacred Scripture says that after each seven-day creation, God looked upon what He made and saw it was good.
The world in itself is not an obstacle to salvation. It becomes such an obstacle only when a person gets so attached to it that it keeps him from seeing God. For the person who is excessively attached to the world or is too weak to resist its attractions
the world becomes a formidable enemy. Such a person falls prey to a worldly spirit, a spirit chosen by those who live in complete neglect of their spiritual welfare. Sometimes entire cities or nations are infected with this spirit being only for pleasures that can be drawn from creature things. This spirit presents a great obstacle to the Christian who is to succeed about saving his soul through the practice of virtue.

The worldly spirit is shown in many ways, one of which is its materialism. These directly opposed to the precepts of Christ. Each pleasure, comfort, riches, fame ambitions and power. The world advises its followers to enjoy life while they can, to make the most of what the work has to offer, to such badly con-tort to forget about tomorrow and to give no thought to the hereafter. This corrupting of true values has been carried so far that an attitude has become a man who thinks for himself,
a person who rejects all authority and objective morality is one who cherishes his personal freedom. A man or woman of low morals is considered sophisticated and mature.

The worldly spirit is shown also in the attitude of persecution of those who try to live honestly and decently. The serious person not only declares himself free from all restrictions but makes a mockery of any authority or law that would guide people along the path of self control and sobriety. Not wanting to observe the law
himself he cultivates a hatred
for those who are trying to lead
good lives.

Occasional meditation on the casualty of the world is also a means by which we can keep ourselves unspoiled even in the midst of the world. The world passes quickly, life even faster.
There is nothing noble and permanent in the world's judgments and friendships, nothing completely satisfying in its pleasures.
Those who are exploited today are criticized tomorrow. The evil prosper because they have their power in this world while the Christian who realizes he has not a lasting city on earth knows

On November 29 in the heavily populated River district a fire destroyed a building, killing three people and causing serious damage to another occupant. Inquiries showed that the building was registered as a school framework for 100 children. From this register that number was taken shortly after the fire, as the building was the destination of the fire.

A week earlier at Burnside Park children were burned and the building structure damaged. But further inquiries showed that 100 children were taken there. There was no fire in the building of the school. The building was destroyed in place of the school. The building was destroyed in place of the school. COWS NEED VITAMIN A FOR

A deficiency of vitamin A in beef cows can result in loss at calving time. But feeding the dams a vitamin supplement two months before calving can prevent such losses. Beef cows require a daily intake of 5,000 international units of vitamin A per 100 pounds of body weight. They obtain it from good forage in the form of carotene, which they are able to store in their bodies for use as needed.

However, attention must be paid to the condition of the forage. Dried - out fall pastures and hay that was badly weathered when curing contain little carotene.

In such cases vitamin A supplement is needed. The amount required depends largely on the condition of the forage. At Kamloops, the estimate is about two pounds each per month, plus their approximate one-half of the vitamin A required. The remainder apparently was provided by carotene stored in their bodies and in the

The results: symptoms of vitamin A deficiency were eliminated.

The amounts used in the mixture were: six pounds of vitamin A concentrate, 33 pounds of bone meal and 66 pounds of salt.

Just how much concentrate to use is determined by the amount of the mixture consumed by the herd. At Kamloops, the estimate is about two pounds each per month, plus their approximate one-half of the vitamin A required. Oil Wives' Meeting

The Drayton Valley ladies held their Christmas party on December 9 in the Cardium room. Dinner was served at 7:30 P.M. and there were 121 people present which included 9 guests. We had a short business meeting which was followed by a program of music by the staging group as well as the whole group.

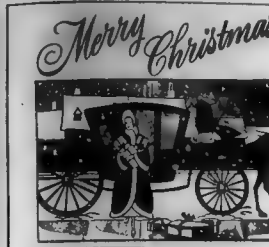

Our program guest for the evening was Mrs. H. MacInnes who did a marvelous job playing the piano. Santa Claus made his entry in the middle of our program and made everyone happy with some small gifts. Our next meeting will be held on January 15, 1964. Reported by T. Davies

Mrs. Norris was most complimentary in her remarks regarding the Constituency Conference held in Drayton Valley last June. The order again of her enjoyment of the day "A Housewife's Day with the A.I.R." written and presented by Mrs. Norbury and Mrs. Belliveau, and expressed the hope that these ladies would be able to give a repeat performance at the district conference in Edmonton in March. Mrs. St. Louis and Parantassu will attend the Fair Board meeting in January to offer W.I. help for the 1964 Fall Fair.

The welfare committee reported that one needy gentleman had been helped with a gift of warm clothing. Christmas cards, postage, and gifts had been delivered to Oliver Memorial Hospital for the use of the patients.

The W.I. Girls' Club, the Pembina Playmates, enjoyed their Christmas Party. Miss Jean Norbury was in charge.

Mrs. Wakelam was presented with a W.I. cup and sash as a going-away gift. Mrs. Wakelam has served in various capacities on our executive during her stay here and will be greatly missed. The Wakelams have returned to their farm at Torma-bank and we understand that Mrs. Wakelam has re-joined that W.I.

We welcome Mrs. Ramonson as a new member. Mrs. Dunsenhoff had arranged various interesting items of interest for their Christmas meeting. One contest showed that we have some portrait painting of unusual talent. Mrs. Dunsenhoff showed great originality in selecting her prizes and this part of the meeting was particularly enjoyable.

Mrs. Tursell and Mrs. Chipchase served a delicious lunch. The next meeting will be held in the library on January 20. Visitors and new members are most welcome.

"My car is one of the latest out, you know."

"Yes, I've heard most of the neighbors complaining about the time you come home at night."

"Prince Of Peace"

Jehovah's Witnesses
By - Ross Gibson

Glorify in the heights above to God, and upon earth peace to men of good will." Luke 2:14. Familiar words at this time of year. One might ask however, where is the peace on earth, with continuing violence, displacement and death among unknown nations? If God has forgotten man altogether.

Yes, our Greater Jehovah God is not forgotten the earth or those on it. He has a real and definite plan to bring about his righteous peace and security to all men of good will.

Let us examine God's plan as He outlined it in His book the Bible. One that is scrupulously honest, fair to all and utterly without prejudice, one able to set down lawless elements and to maintain order and discipline, first of all, a government instituted by God. This is the ideal of government that is to last for each time we repeat the Lord's prayer, "Let your kingdom come. Let your will take place, as in heaven, also upon earth." Matt. 6:10.

To be a success this kingdom must be world-wide, universal. There can be no room for conquest, no universal man made government, no matter how good they may seem or how sincere their organizers may be. This is the way Daniel described it in a prophecy about the setting up of God's Kingdom, "And In the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that will not, . . . be brought to ruin, And the kingdom itself will not be passed on to any other people, for it will crush and put an end to all the kingdoms, and it itself will stand to time indefinite." Dan. 2:44.

Of Peace"

child born to us, there has been a son given to us; and the prince by rule will come to be upon his shoulder. And his name will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Eternal Father, Prince of Peace. To the abundance of the Princely rule and to peace there will be no end.... Isa. (Jdg-7, Phil. 2:9 - 11 Cor. 1:24-25.

What conditions will cause 'rule bring to the earth? Read the answer yourself at Isaiah 65:17-25 and at Rev. 21:4. And he will wipe out every tear from their eyes, and death will be no more, neither mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away.

God's government is real. Bible prophecy clearly fr prophecy clearly shows that He will soon fulfill Dan. 2:44. Prove these things for yourself by a diligent study of the Bible. Be among those who will reap the benefits of God's Kingdom. Take courage in his sure promises of better things to come. "Eye has not seen and ear has not heard, neither has there been conceived in the heart of man" the things that God has prepared for those who love Him. - 1 Cor.

TREE SAFETY TIPS

Because Christmas trees are potential fire hazards, here are a few tips that will help prevent a fire in your home:

1. Keep your tree outdoors until you are ready to put it up.
2. Wait until just before Christmas to put up your tree.
3. Place tree so it does not block doors.
4. Place tree away from radiators and heaters, and certainly away from fireplaces.
5. Stand tree in water to retard drying.

6. Use fireproof decorations of glass and metal.
7. Carefully check your Christmas lights and discard sets with frayed wiring. Don't use lighted candles.
8. Don't leave tree lights burning when away from home.
9. Inspect tree often to see if lights are drying out needles. If they have change the position of the lights.
10. Take the tree down when the needles start falling.

Christmas thought

It is said that the Christmas spirit led St. Francis to pray that "I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood; as to understand; to be loved, as to love. For it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned; it is in dying that we are born to eternal life."

The Chuck Twissell family had a busy week end. They attended a family dinner party in Edmonton, were entertained at the Calgary Power Christmas Party and visited friends and relatives in Innisfail.

HALF TOP OF TURKEY UP FOR GRABS

The Drayton Valley Curling Club (Turkey 50) is just about ready to kick off. Only two entries are needed at press time to fill the roster of 22 rinks. The curlers will walk off with a half top of turkey. This event will close out the activities at the club for the 63 season.

In regular league play things came to a halt after many curling displays, most of the sections were decided on the last night play.

Section D saw Ted Matton, Jr. skip the Jack O'Connell rink to an almost perfect record of 8 - 1.

Section C, it was Col. Ken Hey that's the skip. The rink was on to another near perfect record of 8 - 1.

Section B the ever dangerous Taylor walked away with a "winning" division and second in the last day.

Section A, it was Dr. Ian Ward who won the reverse Psychology on his skip Howard Caldera in pushing him to the second in the last day.

After a few shuffles in the rinks the regular league play will resume on Jan. 6th, 1964.

Scout Rally Drive

The Boy Scout Group Council on sponsored the Annual Boy Scout Rally Drive, with boy scouts going around the town of Drayton Valley, on the evening of Tuesday, December 18 with the very attractive packaged bundles of holly, annual tree and other items.

The Boy Scout Group Council is composed of seven members, this year there are Al. Home, Chairman, Bill Gough, Secretary, and members from the community.

The function of the group council is to work with the various Scout leaders, both on the club and the Scout level, to oversee the Scouting Program generally. A representative of the group council is a member of the Pembina District Boy Scout Council.

come to pass, will probably never be realized. But we have found that if one has faith, we can believe with the Apostle Paul, "Romans 8:28." All things work together for good to those who love God, to them who are called according to His purpose. So we are fully persuaded that some of the things that seem like calamities at the moment, are in the end going to work out for our good and for the good of all concerned. For we look not only to our own good, but to the good of all.

We also want to say that it has been wonderful living and working this past year in Drayton Valley. People have been good to us. We appreciate the support and patronage we have had, whether it be those who have helped us with the paper each week, those who advertise in the paper, or those who have entrusted us with their printing. We appreciate you all.

We would like to say particularly that we appreciate the youth of Drayton Valley. We meet quite a few of them in the course of a year and we want to say the future of our country is in mighty good hands. Of course, each and every one of these youth are going to make their mistakes, have their moments of indecision and their "bad" times, when they shake the faith of their elders as well as of themselves. But then, we who are the "elders" don't we all have our moments of indecision? Our times of "mistakes" our times when it seems that the "whole wide world is against us"? And maybe we too, have our times when we are "against the whole wide world"? So, Youth of Drayton Valley and area, we know that you have many, many friends, but we would like you to count on "us" as your friends.

Then, goodbye, 1963. God willing, we will be back in the old stand, with the first paper of 1964, the January 1st issue. In that brief span of time many strange, unique things will have happened. In Drayton Valley, in Canada, around the world, and in our individual lives. But we look forward with confidence to 1964, for as the last day of the old year, the New Year's message during one of England's darkest years. If we put our hand into God's hand we can step boldly out into the unknown.

Each year the Scout group Council has sponsored the Ice Carnival. No decision has yet been made as to whether the Scout Group Committee will sponsor an Ice Carnival this year and if so, when or where it will be held. The Ice Carnival has been a most successful project each year, although it is a trial of a group that requires much work on the part of members of the Scout Group and others, particularly the Figure 5 youth group. The Ice Carnival is a good money-making venture, but it gives the Town some excellent publicity, and this for has it a definite need to the community for that type of entertainment.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

Heading north on Highway 1, while attempting to pass another vehicle Alex Sippola was involved in a head-on collision with a "Scout" truck. Both vehicles were knocked off the highway into the ditch from the impact of the very severe crash. Sippola car travelling for some distance after the crash.

The White vehicle was completely demolished, and used as a total "write-off" by the insurance company. Mr. and Mrs. Whyte were badly shaken and hospitalized for treatment and then released. Mr. Sippola suffered a broken arm and severe cuts on his face.

Wrecking Wife (to husband): "For weeks you've been saying you're not to buy my anything for my birthday. . . . And you haven't bought me anything!"

Special Provisions Applicable to Separate School Districts

with it published the School Act, revised to 1960, as it relates to Separate and Public Schools. It might be noted that under Section 250 that the group setting a separate school must notify the proper municipal authorities ONCE ON THE 15th day of December and also, under Section 250 (sub-section) that any company which notifies the proper municipal authorities BEFORE the first FORSE December 31st, of the desire of the company to remain outside the jurisdiction of the separate school board for tax purposes will be tax exempt, insofar as separate schools are concerned. This notification then will be effective for each succeeding year.

287. Where a separate school district has been established, the religion of the owner of the property liable to assessment, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, determines whether the property is assessable for public or separate school purposes.

288. Where a separate school district has been established if property is held by two or more persons as joint tenants or tenants in common and if the holders of the property are Protestant and Roman Catholic, respectively, each shall be assessed for the purposes of the district of which he is a supporter, in proportion to his interest in the property. (R.S.A. 1955, c. 297, s. 287)

289. (1) In a public school district in which a separate school district has been established, a company may by giving notice, require a percentage of the property, in respect of which it is assessable, to be entered and assessed for separate school purposes.

Aalborg Says There's Merit In School Merger Proposal

HIGHER STANDARD
The advantage of a merger in small central world, in the main, be restricted to high school, said Mr. Aalborg, large high school, serving both systems, would provide a higher standard and more extensive training at less cost.

In major cities both systems have large schools and there wouldn't be a saving, said the minister. He was commenting on a statement made by Hans Aalborg, chairman of the Calgary Public School Board, who suggested that combining separate and public schools could cut the burden on sprawling education costs. The minister said he didn't think it was a valid assumption that any merger would decrease costs. Studies have shown that most large separate schools have a lower operating cost than public schools, he said. He added that the separate school system exists by virtue of constitutional provisions in the British North America Act and the Alberta Act. A decision to join the two systems would have to be made by supporters in each local area legislation could not be enacted to close the situation.

BY: ARTHUR PLATTARD
EDITOR - PUBLISHER.

Goodbye 1963. You have been a strange year in many ways. Some events that have taken place, but the world of ours has survived "earth-shaking" events, and we are quite sure the will again.

In Canada, on the economic scene, you have been a good year for the most part. Of course, we have our "unemployment" problem and its attendant hardships, but so one would say that that, at the moment, is not the worst. For the most part we have seen a buoyant economy, but the market here is in the richest of all countries.

Which is what we should see, for this is the last and greatest of the world's "have" nations. We have natural resources such as the world at large has never dreamed of, riches beyond comparison in this part of our land of ours, the truly the land of the free and the home of the brave. We want to keep it that way. If we remain "brave," then we shall also remain "free." But if we give in to the purveyors of the "compromisers" and the one worlders we will lose our sovereignty and lose our precious freedom and our heritage, as one of the greatest nations of the world, to bring justice and equity and freedom to the "world" but as a separate entity.

We would like to close on a personal note. In many ways this year has closed out "strange" for us, it has been a quite good year in most ways but this year, closing month of December has not been according to the "schedule". Many things we had hoped for. And expected to

Real 'Old Fashioned' Christmas Takes on Many Forms

By ANN RIVIN
Vancouver, B.C.

"It's in the country districts that the old traditions are kept up."
"On the farms they still keep the colorful customs of the past."
Again and again you hear those words, as you talk to people from different parts of the world, about their special Christmas celebrations. "In the rural areas," they say, "there's no commercialization. Farm families keep a real old-fashioned Christmas."

Farmers of the Scandinavian countries keep up the old ways perhaps more than any others. Though most of them have cars or trucks, they bring out the old sleigh on Christmas morning, and journey over the snow to the pre-dawn service. They light their way through the darkness with flaring torches, as their fathers and grandfathers did before them, and in front of the church they toss their torches into a large pile, to shine like a beacon in the night.

ANIMALS REMEMBERED

On the Scandinavian farms the animals are always remembered at Christmas time. The largest sheaf of grain from the year's harvest is hung on a high pole for the birds. Horses and cows receive extra portions of the finest oats or barley, with the traditional words, "Eat well, old friend, it's Christmas Eve." And the children love to leave a bowl of porridge in the hayloft for the "barn brownie," which miraculously is always empty in the morning.

In Norway, where the holiday dinner revolves around pork, the fall slaughtering is often delayed until just before Christmas. The special pig is chosen well in advance, and the children keep a careful eye on it, checking it every day.

Every part of the animal is used for some traditional dish — several kinds of homemade sausages, hams, cutlets, right down to the feet, which are pickled in brine. In Sweden, the favourite Christmas custom is the Saint Lucia festival, which is held on December 13th. The youngest daughter of the house dresses in a flowing white gown, and wears on her head a crown of lighted candles, fastened into a wreath of lingonberry leaves. Then she awakens each member of the family, singing to them the old song "Santa Lucia" and serving them coffee and freshly baked Lucia buns in bed.

KEPT UP IN CANADA

The Santa Lucia festival is kept up in Canada by many Swedish families. In fact, our Canadian Christmas is enriched by all kinds of colorful celebrations from widely different cultures. In Victoria, B.C., an old English Elizabethan Christmas is celebrated each year, with flaming Yule log, boar's head and costumed carollers. Ukrainian Canadians keep up the tradition of the zestful meal on Christmas Eve, with 12 different dishes, to represent the twelve Apostles; the beautiful German custom of the Adventkranz is kept up in a great many homes; and people from several European countries remember St. Nicholas Day on December 6th.

St. Nicholas, the patron saint of children and the original Santa Claus, arrives in Holland by boat. While the church bells ring, he rides through the town on a white horse, carrying a long, crooked gold staff and wearing over his bishop's robes, a red velvet coat with gold crests on the back.

He is accompanied by Black Peter, dressed in a brightly-colored costume of 16th century Spain, with a sack full of goodies for well-behaved children, and a birch rod for the bad ones, though strangely there never seem to be any bad ones at this time.

In Switzerland, St. Nicholas Day is celebrated in slightly different ways, and the most exciting and certainly the most unusual celebration of all is the Santa Claus Parade held on the evening of December 5th, 1 mile town of Kusnacht am Rigi.

Historic West to Be Preserved In Unusual New Type of Park

Calgary is to have a new kind of city park, one which will present local history in a dramatic form. The name proposed is Heritage Park and it will be located on the broader parkland known as Glenmore. In a sense, it will be a Park within a park.

Largely undeveloped is the city's Glenmore Park — some 2,800 acres including the artificial lake created by Glenmore Dam on the Elbow River. The lake is the source of the city water supply, giving more than a quarter of a million people an added interest in it.

Fortunately, substantial amounts of land adjacent to the water have been kept in an unspoiled and natural state and held in the name of the city. It wasn't easy to keep choice water-front property from ambitious developers but the wisdom of firm policies in the matter became clear. Even in park planning, many elaborate and strange proposals were offered for the use of the valuable public asset but many citizens continued to favor a park retaining much of the natural topography, natural vegetation and natural beauty.

Now being pursued are the plans for a historical park, featuring a pioneer village with carefully selected old buildings, a homestead setting, an early Turner Valley derrick, a couple of railways typical of earlier years, an Indian village and even a sternwheeler boat to ply on the lake. "Exciting," is the way the plan has been described by those Albertans and other Westerners seeing the model for the first time. Local residents may find the most of interest in it but the finished project and preserved, will be an attraction for Canadians everywhere.

Members of Calgary City Council were informed of the proposal in 1952. An anonymous donor was prepared to provide $150,000 toward the carrying out of such a scheme. The first name proposed was Story Book Farm. On November 26, 1952, the City Council approved in principle and authorized negotiations and plans along with a certain sum of city money. But, as the work advanced and the concept of the park changed to one with a clearer basis in local history, the new name emerged as a better one and "Heritage Park" was pretty well accepted.

The development, as planned, will cost an estimated $347,000 with about 25 per cent of such amount being subscribed by private citizens interested in it as a valuable community asset. Work is already under way, as planners hope the novel park will be ready for opening in the early summer of 1954.

There is added significance in the fact that the new park on a peninsula commanding excellent views of both lake and mountains, is actually on land which was part of the holdings of Calgary's first farmer, Sam Livingstone. When the North West Mounted Police came to build Fort Calgary in 1875, Livingstone — trader, prospector, freighter and adventurer — was squatting beside the Elbow River, making plans to cultivate the unfertile soil. It came after he roamed far on the North American continent and decided the confluence of Bow and Elbow Rivers was his choice of place at which to settle. Settle down he did, then raised a family of 14 children.

Model of Heritage Park — newest tribute to the historic West.

Learning of the police plans to erect a fort, and anxious to be on good terms with the newly-arrived officers of the law, Livingstone crossed to the opposite side of the Elbow and built a log cabin — a cabin which will probably find a place of honor in the Pioneer Village to be constructed in the park.

Two ancient Livingstone buildings — both of log construction — can be seen today on the City Nursery site fronting on 14th Street S.W. Originally, they were close to the Elbow River but when Glenmore Dam was constructed, the two old structures were moved to their present location on high ground. The smaller one, now seriously dilapidated, was built in 1875 or '76 and is obviously the oldest building standing in the Calgary community. Its companion building, Sam Livingstone's next house, was built about 10 years later and was known far and wide as "The Big House."

Both of these log structures, with repairs, will find places in the Pioneer Village, also the well-known shoemaker's log cabin which was long a landmark at the corner of 9th Avenue and 3rd Street S.E. in Calgary. The latter's future will be as a harness shop in the Village.

Everything in the park is supposed to trace to a period prior to the First World War. The Pioneer Village is expected to embrace 24 buildings, including old homes, a one-room school of early construction, village church and a small railway station — perhaps from Midnapore. Beyond the village will be the trapper's cabin, Hudson's Bay Company trading post.

This Week's Cover Picture

Our cover picture this week is the former Anglican Cathedral at Whitehorse in the Yukon, believed to have been the only log cathedral in the world. This fine photo by Bill Horback of Whitehorse for the Western Weekly catches a majestic and mystic atmosphere around this venerable building in an authentic Christmas setting. The cross against the black Arctic sky of deep winter seems to calmly defy the elements and time. This famous building is now used as a church museum.

Indian Village and homestead setting with sod house. The trading post will be an exact duplicate of the post at Rocky Mountain House.

Two old railway trains will operate in the park, one on standard gauge rails and the other on narrow gauge. The equipment for both has been secured. The standard gauge train will have an old steam engine, three coaches, flat cars and snowplow. The train to operate on narrow gauge — 36 inch spread of rails — will require a trestle bridge over a cutline and run on 2,800 feet of railway, 800 feet of which will be through tunnels. This particular train, with 20 coal cars, will be brought from a mining community in the Crow's Nest Pass.

As for the oil derrick, it will be an exact replica of the Dingman No. 1 rig used in Turner Valley.

Moreover, equipment seen in the new park will be in working order and working. There'll be horse-drawn stage coaches ready to carry visitors on scenic jaunts and the sternwheeler lakeboat will be available to sight-seeing passengers — 150 or 200 will make regular tours on the lake and dock at a point close to the present dock used by sailing yachts.

The sternwheeler will be built to conform exactly with authentic early models carrying passengers and freight on western streams and lakes, differing only in taking its power from a diesel motor instead of a steam engine.

Many of the buildings and most of the museum specimens which will give Heritage Park a distinctive character, will be furnished by Glenbow Foundation, a body which has already done much to preserve the best of Western Canada's past.

This is not a Disneyland creation; rather, it is an earnest effort to revive many of the interesting and valuable institutions of pioneer years. To visit the new park after it has been opened to the public will be like stepping into an earlier generation and seeing structures, methods and equipment which typified the times when the West was a frontier.

The park will continue to be city property and normal park maintenance will be city responsibility. But operational management is expected to become the task of Heritage Park Society on which members of the Calgary City Council and private citizens will serve.
